Dr. Cal Ribbens
Virginia Tech
2202 Kraft Drive
Blacksburg, VA 24060

Dear Dr. Ribbens,

I am writing to apply for the Visiting Assistant Professor position advertised on Virginia Tech Job Listing website. As requested, you will find my curriculum vita and list of references.

The presented opportunity in this listing is interesting, and I believe I am an excellent fit for the position. I have a number of strengths and prior experiences that make me a uniquely qualified candidate:

- Experience in teaching introductory computing courses to non-majors using modern pedagogical techniques
- Extensive development experience in creating educational software and infrastructure to measurably improve student learning
- Proven commitment to diversity efforts, as demonstrated by my years in the Association for Women in Computing
- Multiple publications at various Computer Science Education venues, including SIGCSE and ITICSE
- History and ongoing collaborations with various Virginia Tech Computer Science professors in the area of CS Education.

With a doctorate in Computer Science and a certification in the Learning Sciences, I have expertise in both implementing educational systems and teaching novice learners. I also have leadership experience

I can be reached anytime via email at acbart@vt.edu or my cell phone, 302-384-2729.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration. I am looking forward to further discussion about this position.

Sincerely,
Austin Cory Bart
